About the Art and the Artists

Linda Richter

I have found the vibrant colors and dramatic creatures of Bonaire to be inspirational. The brilliant Caribbean light bounces off the intense Bonaire colors – mustard yellow houses, neon green iguanas, turquoise water, coral pink flamingos, the incredible purples of the salt pans against the white mountains of salt. Bonaire is a truly rich visual experience. I hope my paintings reflect some of that intensity. Oil paint on canvas gives me the freedom to capture the amazing colors and incredible light.

Nature's beauty and color in motion have always been a great attraction to me, and capturing such imagery via my "third eye" - the lens of my camera - has always been a goal of my photography. And in the last decade, with the advent of digitizing technology and photo editing capabilities transforming my photo studio from one of chemicals and enlargers to one of pixels and computers, I have found ways to repaint my photographs with a digital paintbrush. This combination results in images which at first glance appear to be photos but upon closer examination are very realistic paintings. And Bonaire in all her glory is a magnificent subject.
